Jim Reynolds, P

After a short hiatus, we have numerous activities coming up for late summer and fall. I am sure that there will be further details from the other members of the EXCOM, but I thought that I would go ahead and make quick mention of some of the events that are in the works.

September 6th - Cruise to Cape Lookout National Seashore

September 10th and 11th - Bike MS rest stop assistance.

September 19th - Dinner Meeting at The Chelsea.

October 8th and 9th - Mumfest (volunteers needed to man our booth located back at Union Point this year).

Various basic and advanced training courses are offered this fall – great time to advance your boating skills.

I hope everyone will find something of interest.”

New Members Ken Morrison & Julie Mincey will be sworn in at the September Dinner Mtg

Administrative Officer

Lt/C Jane Moore, AP

After our July meeting, Julie Mincey and Ken Morrison joined our Squadron and will be sworn in at the September meeting. We also welcome Charlie Stoup from Mechanicsburg, PA who will be an Associate member of CLSPS.

Thank you to Lt Elaine Lechner for arranging the wine tasting at Cravin Wine on 13 August. The owners Dan and Diane Moses welcomed the Squadron members and introduced us to the CEO Andy Woolgar of Rickety Bridge Winery of Franschoek, South Africa. It was a delightful evening with delicious food paired with the different variety of white and red wines.

Lt Bill Gewain has arranged a shallow draft cruise to Cape Lookout National Seashore on Tuesday, 6 September. He will meet at the Beaufort Town Docks and travel by way of Shackleford Banks to the bight at Cape Lookout. Please contact Bill if you are able to participate.

We hope you will join us for our upcoming membership dinner meeting on Monday, 19 September. Lt Linda Whitley has arranged a program by Ms. Carol Young, an outreach specialist from the Attorney General's office. Ms. Young's primary work focus is on consumer protection awareness of scams and frauds through outreach opportunities with business, civic and community groups.

Looking forward to October, we have a cooking class planned at the Spice Bouquet in Kinston for Tuesday, 18 October from 11:00 am to 1:00 pm. We still have openings for the class and will have more information at the September meeting. The cost is $15.00 per person.

Education Officer

Starr Outlook for September

Here's what's going on in the Education Department...

Bud Ellis's piloting class is rolling along and will be ready for their exam in the next few weeks. We started with seven folks in the class, and are now down to five stalwarts. The two students that dropped out had conflicts and will be back the next time we run the class.

Please talk up our ABC class starting Saturday, October 15. We're doing the same two-Saturday format we used successfully in the spring, with a practice session on the water on Sunday, the 23rd. The ABC classes are where we have successfully recruited new members in the past, and it's a great way for people new to boating or new to the area to get started. We have superb instructors, as well. Completing the class also gets you your NC Boater Education Certificate. If you know anyone who's interested, have them contact me.

It's been awhile since we've run Cruising & Cruise Planning—It's been a very popular class in the past. This class, with senior instructor Ed Gagnon, will get you ready to go off on your boat (or a charter) on a multi-day to several week cruise. All the essentials are covered, including some things you may not have thought about, like choosing an appropriate crew and keeping them well-fed and happy. A highlight of the course is that several of our experienced cruising couples will be guest instructors, teaching a portion of the course and also talking about their experiences cruising to one of their favorite destinations. You'll get the full perspective on cruising from both members of the team. We're going to run the class on two Saturdays—October 29 and November 5. Please mark your calendars. More specifics next month.

Money collected from the Booster Club helps defray the cost of our Dinner Meeting speakers.

Only a small portion (about $17) of our dues to USPS is returned to the Cape Lookout Squadron. We need help keeping our books in the Black. Please contribute to the Booster Club. Any amount is helpful, but $10 per person is a suggested amount.

Vessel Safety Check Program Larry Lovvorn

Boating Safety Information

The Vessel Safety Check is primarily a check of equipment. It is not a complete survey of the boat. The Vessel Examiner is a fellow boater trained in the principles of boating safety. While the decal indicates that the boat is free from obvious sources of danger it does not guarantee immunity from problems while underway.

The VSC program encourages boaters to take approved boating safety classes to further their boating safety knowledge.

The VSC program is in the interest of greater safety on the water. It is a means of helping the operator become more safety conscious. This program is a public service performed by a fellow boater.

In accepting and displaying the VSC decal the owner or operator agrees to maintain the boat and equipment to the safety standards of the VSC. Should the ownership of the boat be transferred a new VSC will be required. Seller must remove the decal and advise the buyer to schedule a new VSC.

It is the responsibility of the owner to be aware of the Navigation Rules and how they apply in relation to the boat undergoing a VSC.

The operator must be aware of and comply with posted speed limits, especially when near moorings or proceeding through an anchorage.

Small boats are advised to keep out of the way of large boats even if the smaller boat is the stand-on vessel (has the right of way)

It is illegal to moor or tie to any buoy, day beacon or other aids of navigation owned or maintained by the government.

For vessels operating on open waters, such as large bays and lakes or offshore, it is recommended that boaters have an accurate rpm-speed table and an up-to-date compass deviation card posted near the operator's position.

When a boat floods or overturns it is recommended that all personnel on board put on personal flotation devices and STAY WITH THE BOAT.

Automobile parts are not designed for the boating environment and, if installed, could cause serious problems. They are not to be substituted for similar parts on a boat engine.

Boaters are required to stop and render assistance when involved in an accident in so far as can be done without endangering the operator's boat or persons on board.

Information regarding involved parties and their boats must be exchanged.

CRUISE TO CAPE LOOKOUT

Attention all Members:

Date: Tuesday, September 6, 2016

There will be a Cruise to Cape Lookout National Seashore. This is the day after Labor Day. It has been chosen for good reason. It is after the Holiday, school is back in session, high tide is 11:00 AM, and this is a shallow cruise. We will cruise from the Beaufort Town Docks by way of Shackleford Island with a stop to see the horses then travel on along Harkers Island to the bight of Cape Lookout National Seashore.

We will go ashore East of the lighthouse where the water is ankle deep instead of landing at the lighthouse where swimming in 12 knot currents is not required. Don't ask how I learned that fact.

I have done this cruise many times and it wouldn't be Summer without this cruise.

I have had to miss the June Summer Solstice Cruise so this will do.

I have seats for six on my Skiff plus one beside the captain.

Since this is a shallow cruise, high tide is necessary for inside cruise.

There are bathrooms, gift shop and covered picnic tables on the island.

Hope for Good Weather

Piloting Quiz

1. You're boating down the ICW. What's the little bright yellow triangle mean?
To stay on the ICW treat this marker as:

- A. A Yellow Marker
- B. A Red Marker
- C. A Green Marker
- D. This Marker is a Bird Sanctuary

Answer: B

When a navigation mark is on the ICW, a small yellow mark confirms that you are on the ICW and to treat this mark as a "red" mark to stay in the ICW. There are some places when the two marks disagree. In that case, follow the yellow mark to stay on the ICW.

2. You're boating and come to this "Y in the road" Marker.

To stay in the main channel:

- A. Treat this Marker as a Green Marker
- B. Treat this Marker as a Red Marker
- C. Either side of this Marker is the main channel
- D. Turn around, this is the end of the road.

Answer: A

When you come to a "Y" in the road and you want to stay in the main channel, treat the marker as the top color (in this case, green) of the marker to keep you in the main channel.

These two marks were found between Oriental and Morehead City on Adams Creek/ Core Creek. If you are southbound in question 2, the green/main channel will take you to Morehead City, and if you treat the mark as a red mark, it will take you to Gallants Channel/ Beaufort

HORATIO

P/C WILLIAM J. ASH SN, H

For over twenty years, I have been called Captain Hornblower by my chums (one hundred and seven times, on average). Apparently my works are read by many, both in and out of the Squadron. I am pleased, but I must mention, with emphasis, I am not Captain Horatio Hornblower. He is my sidekick, my very close friend, an officer in His Majesty's British Navy. He was created by C.S. Forester who made him a hero in eleven novels. P/C has used him in well over one hundred short stories.

When I started to write my monthly (well, almost) articles I was a member of the Peconic Bay Sail and Power Squadron on eastern Long Island. In fact, I am Past Commander, twice, of that dynamic, nautically active organization. One fine, foggy morning I was at the helm of my faithful and instructive cat boat, the Jolly Tar wondering what to write for my next article when it dawned on me to incorporate Horatio into my stories in an instructional way. I had read all of Forester's novels about Hornblower (which is why I have the H after my name). I felt quite close to him and he was the type of chap who might just provide a good word, now and then, about Peconic Bay. Many a Tell-Tale, the monthly publication of Peconic Bay, contained pages of Horatio and I doing something together. When I transferred to Cape Lookout I was not surprised to see Horatio and his ship, H.M. S. Lydia arrive in our local waters. To make matters worse, Horatio had with him a chap named Clewsew who had the specific job of repairing or sewing the clew of any sail needing repair. He inspected all the vessel's sails and I referred to him as Inspector Clewsew (sound familiar?). We all had fun together. Unfortunately, the Inspector was called back to Paris for serious work. I suspect he would like to rejoin Horatio on H.M.S. Lydia. We'll see how that develops.

Anyway, Horatio and I have been confronting issues for a long time. The British Admiralty has threatened to order him back to England but I have convinced that group of stuff-shirts that my monthly article would take a serious hit if that occurred. So far, so good!

Now, getting back to a foggy morning, many years ago, when my crew and I were beating westward at the lower end of Big Seatuck, a bay south of Eastport, Long Island. Raynor, my helmsman thought he saw a lantern two points off the port bow. There, he saw it again. Then, a dark shadow of a sailing vessel slowly appeared. She was not under way; she was at anchor. We eased on, coming up near her starboard quarter. I remember hailing her and I received word as to which vessel it was, H.M.S. Nonsuch under the command of Commodore Horatio Hornblower. I identified our modest assembly in the S.V. Jolly Tar and I, P/C W.J. Ash, JN its Captain. The officer on deck advised me to slowly advance to the starboard chain plate and tie up and come aboard. I was thrilled, as were the men who accompanied me. We were piped aboard with all the respect Nonsuch could provide. It was the first time I had ever been piped aboard anything.

There stood Hornblower. He appeared to be a stern Commodore but showed a slight grin and a twinkle in his eye. I knew, immediately that I had a new friend, a chap who might make a difference in my life. We spoke the same nautical language and had similar values as men of the sea.

And that is how I met Commodore Horatio Hornblower who would go on to become Captain of H.M.S. Lydia. I would advance to Senior Navigator with the H for good measure. I enjoy doing this.

June's Jokes

P/C June Reasons, P

Interesting Facts about the Sea...

1) Earth's largest continuous mountain chain is the Mid-Ocean Ridge, stretching for 40,000 miles, rising above the surface of the water in a few places, such as Iceland. It is four times longer than the Andes, Rocky Mountains, and Himalayas combined.

2) Ninety percent of all volcanic activity occurs in the oceans. In 1993, scientists located the largest known concentration of active volcanoes on the sea floor in the South Pacific. This area, the size of New York State, hosts 1,133 volcanic cones and seamounts. Two or three could erupt at any moment.

3) The highest tides in the world are at the Bay of Fundy, which separates New Brunswick from Nova Scotia. At some times of the year the difference between high and low tide is 53 feet 6 inches, the equivalent of a five-story building.

4) In 1958, the United States Coast Guard icebreaker East Wind measured the world's tallest known iceberg off western Greenland. At 550 feet, it was only 5 feet 6 inches shorter than the Washington Monument in Washington, D.C.

5) The volume of the Earth's moon is the same as the volume of the Pacific Ocean.

WAR ZONE

World War II Off North Carolina's Outer Banks

In 1942, the United States suffered one of its worst defeats of WW II, not in Europe or the Pacific, but along the nation's eastern seaboard. Three hundred ninety-seven ships were sunk or damaged and 5,000 people were killed. For six months, 65 U-boats hunted merchant vessels practically unopposed within view of coastal communities. The greatest concentration of these attacks occurred off North Carolina's Outer Banks.

Come hear Kevin share his account of the almost calamitous first engagement between a U-Boat and a U.S. Navy Destroyer near Nags Head.
